Tag Name

TagDerive

This is the text that describes the rules for matching the tag set or generating the derivative document. The text is editable and the undo button works on the far corner of the screen. The content of the field is saved when the user clicks their mouse anywhere or the current element loses its focus. In instances where this field get very long, the field becomes scrollable and vertically resizable. If resizable, the tables below simple move down the page. The sidebar window here can be resized and it scrollable too.

Option to "use local/server version" feature

It usually displays this message when you close an unsaved page when you do it on purpose, and it's getting frustrated to see this every time.

UPDATES

Shortcode for templates to display correctly

When you save some sections as a template and then paste a shortcode to a new page, the layout is broken, some styles are missing – in the editor.

Copy/Paste elements between pages

We can only copy/paste elements (or group of elements) in the same page, which is quite limited.

DONE

Add Figma files for the Library design blocks

I want to present my clients the Figma files first, so it would be great if you add those as well, more manual downloads...

DONE

General ideas to improve 'Edit' workflow

Currently, I have a few templates in the Local Library and when I want to add them I'm always presented (by default).

Add/modify your own CSS-Selectors

Remove Extra DIV for each container added

I still hope there won't have an extra div for each container we added. It should be something for better styling...
